NOTES

Court forms are available at: http://www.ag.gov.bc.ca/courts/other/supreme/2010SupRules/info/index_civil.htm.

They can be completed online and filed electronically using Court Services Online:
www.courtservicesonline.gov.bc.ca.

They can also be printed and completed manually; or completed online, printed and filed.

File this form in the court registry and personally serve it on the defendant.

1. The style of proceeding is the part at the top of the document that identifies your case within the court system. You will use the style of proceeding on every one of your documents, whether they are filed in the court registry or not. The court registry will insert the registry number, which you must use on all your documents. Insert the location of the registry (e.g., Vancouver), as it is part of your style of proceeding. Write in the names of the plaintiff and defendant in capital letters (not addresses) in the style of proceeding.
 2. “Material facts” are the facts that relate to your claim. Set out your story.
 3. “Relief sought” is a summary of what orders you are asking the court to make (e.g., that the defendant pay $27,000, the balance owing under the contract for purchase of my boat; that the defendant pay $35,000 for failing to return my car pursuant to our rental agreement).
 4. Set out the legal basis of your claim, including the Court Rules, legislation, and case law that support your claim (e.g., the defendant’s stairs were rotten and unsafe contrary to The Occupiers’ Liability Act, s. 3; calculation of damages in a wrongful dismissal case as described in Brown v. Smith, 2009 BCSC 200, etc.).
 5. Set out your name. Your address must be a physical location (not just a post office box) where documents can be delivered.
 6. This data appendix has no legal effect. You are required to fill it out, however, as the collection of data is essential for continued improvement of the civil justice system.
 7. Indicate, in one or two short sentences, the essence of your claim. For example, “This claim involves a slip and fall in a grocery store, resulting in a broken hip.”
 8. Check only one box. There may be more than one box that applies to your case, but just do your best to check the box that you believe BEST describes your case. For example, if your case involves the purchase of a diamond ring, check the box labelled, “the provision of goods or services or other general commercial matters.” If your case arose because you gave a diamond ring to your friend for safekeeping and he lost or damaged it, check the box labelled, “personal property.” (Note that “personal property” generally means all property other than lands or buildings.)
 9. Check ALL the boxes that best describe your case. If you believe that none of them apply, check “none of the above.” If you are not sure if any apply, check “do not know.” Note that “conflict of laws” concerns matters that have ties to the laws of different provinces or countries (e.g., a contract between a BC and an American, concerning a Mexican company).
 10. List any laws (e.g., Acts or regulations), that you are relying on to support your case. For example, if your case involves contesting the amount of compensation received in an expropriation, you would list The Expropriation Act. Do not list more than 3 enactments.
